

*Season's Greetings
from Kathleen Wynne*

In Ontario, if you're an investment banker, corporate lawyer, or private contractor eager to grab some government cash, you can expect a nice bonus from the Wynne government this year...and next.

After all, our premier loves the privatization industry. According to the Auditor General, the government spent $8 billion too much when it picked private companies to manage and finance the construction of schools and hospitals.

But, if you're looking for public services, or if you're a provincial employee working to provide services, don't expect an envelope anytime soon.

If the Wynne government has its way, we'll all be getting less in the next four years...a LOT less.

That's how this government treats the public services we all rely on. The government's own reports show Ontario's public sector workers already get the job done better, cheaper, and fairer than the private companies Wynne is spending billions on.

Stop the Liberal handouts of public money to the growing privatization industry that profits from government contracts.

Tell this government to save money...and support public sector workers and quality public services.
